

CLOUD LUDUM

“Cloud Ludum” performs in a style that could be defined as "third stream" – a blend of contemporary classical music with jazz, avant-garde, free improvisation and electronics. The sound of the band is truly unique, stylish and intriguing.

The band was formed in 2010 and since then presented numerous concerts in the Boston area in such venues as Berklee Performance Center, Outpost 186, Xibus Performance Hall, Lily Pad. All members of the band are actively concerting Berklee and BoCo alumni, talented and highly professional musicians.

“Cloud Ludum” experiments a lot with various types of improvisation and even performance of contemporary classical pieces (Bela Bartok, Leo Brouwer, Karlheinz Stockhausen, etc.) always include improvised sections. This makes every performance a unique act of communication between musicians and audience. “Cloud Ludum” has a large repertoire that includes original compositions and arrangements of contemporary music in third-stream and avant-garde idiom. All pieces played by the ensemble are either arranged or composed by Olga Karaseva (Berklee Jazz Composition alumna).
